

December 6, 2008

On the Move

People

by Gregg Sangillo and Winter Casey

The Aviator ...O'Neill and Associates, a government- and public-relations firm, has snagged longtime Federal Aviation Administration veteran Steven Wallace. The firm is headed by Thomas P. O'Neill, son of former House Speaker Tip O'Neill, and deals extensively with aviation and homeland-security matters. Wallace holds a pilot's license and worked at the FAA for 32 years. He spent the past eight years as director of the agency's Office of Accident Investigation. A fluent Italian speaker, he was also the FAA's senior representative at the U.S. Embassy in Rome from 1991 to 2000.

--W.C. and G.S.